The answer to this problem is NOT by letting Microsoft gain more market share by GIVING (read--NOT competing) its software away to poor schools. Please, please, PLEASE don't let them keep doing what they've been doing what they're good at -- devouring innovation and creativity and using their monopoly to squash competition. They aren't playing fairly according to the Sherman Antitrust Act, and they should be more severely punished. But most of all, letting them give away their software will only further cement their monopoly position.

Please do the right thing.
